Lavender Loveliness

Spring is a season of joy and happiness and what better way to celebrate its arrival with gorgeous Lavender in your garden!

Outstanding to plant as hedges or in pots close to living spaces - where their perfume can be enjoyed with the added attraction of visiting butterflies – Lavender complements so many other garden plants. And it's a wonderful drought-resistant plant too. Fresh or dried

Lavender flowers bunched together will bring a special touch of happiness and delightful fragrance to your home.

Our varieties include Lavender stoechas (also known as the French or Butterfly Lavender) – from 'Blueberry Ruffles', 'Mulberry Ruffles', 'Boysenberry Ruffles', 'Winter Purple' and 'Plum'.

An assortment of flowering, waterwise Lavenders awaits you at GardenShop.

Enhance your garden with Clivia from GardenShop

COLOUR SPLASH WITH CLIVIA

Courtesy Clivia Society of South Africa

Clivias bloom into magnificence towards mid September but their show stopping performance is worth all the wait. We are all familiar with Clivia miniata, the traditional orange variety, but for the plant enthusiast, the flower hunter - you may want to add some special species to your envious collection.

All Clivia species require much the same conditions, preferring cool-shaded conditions with excellent drainage. Their natural habitat is in the summer rainfall areas, but they flourish in most places and grow just as well in winter rainfall areas too.

Many new shades (pictured right) are cultivated by specialist growers and range from deep orange to sought-after red and rare peach, apricot, salmon and the most desirable of all, the treasured and lovely pink! There are also patterned forms such as Versicolours, Splash, Picotees and Bicolours.

For collectable Clivias come and visit the Clivia Show happening at GardenShop FloraFarm on 9 and 10 September. A spectacular array of rare and treasured varieties will be showcased including Clivia 'Ghost' and 'Hirao', after its breeder Dr. Hirao of Japan.

Daisy Delight

Daisy flowers including Osteospermums are colourful, waterwise and ideal to bring bright spring cheer and exuberance to any outdoor sunny-living space. They are extremely popular as both gifts and for growing in abundance in gardens as colourful fillers, ground covers and in pots.

The blooms of these star performers are also wonderful for cuttings and appear in a wide range of colours including yellow, pink, white, purple and blue-lilac shades to red, orange and even gold! Plus their beautiful and radiant flowers will attract a bounty of butterflies and of course our ardent honey-makers, bees.

Visit GardenShop now and enhance your garden with the delight of Daisies!

PATRIOTIC PELARGONIUMS

Hero plants indeed, originating from our South African habitats, they are seen and loved all over the world.

Inject colour into your garden spaces with bold and bright Pelargoniums. Also known as Geraniums, you can plant these waterwise delights with pride as they add splashes of colour to your garden beds, pots and hanging baskets. Be rewarded with dazzling colour all your round.

Look out for vibrant varieties of Geraniums at GardenShop to energise your outdoor garden spaces!

LET'S PLANT SEED!

Courtesy Kirchhoffs

All plants start with a tiny seed, and it is through our vast selection of seed packets for annuals, perennials, herbs and vegetables, that Kirchhoffs has been the gardener's friend for more than 100 years.

The modern garden, although often small can be both ornamental and edible. Have fun with it. Try a new veggie that you've never grown before or mix and match veggies and flowers in traditional gardens and containers. There is no law that says lettuce cannot be used as interesting bedding plants. Planting Basil between brightly coloured blooms is also a sure winner.

As you grow your own veggies, use companion plants and flowers to introduce diversity into the garden. This creates an efficient growing system that does not need harmful chemical controls. Flowers and herbs are used to bring colour into the mix, and to act as useful companion plants. The result is a multi-purpose space that looks good, smells good and is edible and healthy.

One of the best approaches is to keep watch over your own garden and see what works for you. You can go with a colour theme or just go carnival!

Seed germinating tips from Kirchhoffs:

- Sow seed at the depth recommended on the seed packet.
- Lightly firm down the soil so that the seed makes contact with the soil.
- Dampen the soil using a watering can with a rose head, it has a softer flow.
- Start watering away from the bed, swish it over the bed and finish watering away from the bed. The first and last droplets come out in a spurt and can wash seeds away.
- Don't let the soil dry out during germination. Water lightly each day.
- For shallow sown, fine seed cover the bed with shade cloth and water through it. As soon as the seed germinates lift off the shade cloth.

Your exciting world of fresh vegetables, herbs and flowers - starts with seeds

Lemon Grass is a clump forming perennial growing up to 1m high. It grows best in full sun, in fertile, well-drained soil and needs plenty of water. It can also be grown in large containers.

TIP: To extract the lemon flavour, cut the stem into 5cm lengths and bruise the stem or make superficial cuts along the stem. Add these pieces to curry or other dishes but remove before serving.

Lemon Verbena has the strongest lemon taste and fragrance of all the lemony herbs. It grows best in full sun, likes a light soil that drains well and should be watered regularly.

TIP: Add the fresh leaves to fish and poultry dishes, vegetable marinades, and rice but remove before serving. Make a refreshing tea by combining dried or fresh leaves with pineapple and apple mint.

A TASTE OF SPRING

— by Alice Coetzee

In spring the fragrance and flavour of lemon-scented herbs from GardenShop sets taste buds tingling with a veritable bouquet

Lemon Balm is a low growing perennial (30cm) that grows in moist, fertile soil, does best in morning sun and afternoon shade.

TIP: Add finely chopped fresh leaves to salads, to lightly flavour egg dishes, as a garnish for soft cheese, incorporated into white sauce for fish, mayonnaise, marinades, vegetable soup and stews, poultry and pork.

Lemon Thyme is a small, shrubby perennial that grows to 30cm, with small, bright green-yellow leaves that are lemon scented and pale mauve flowers in spring. It likes full sun and gritty soil that drains well.

TIP: When roasting chicken stuff the cavity with half a lemon, half a peeled onion and several sprigs of thyme.

Citronella Geranium is not just a natural mosquito repellent but its lemony leaves can be used in cooking too. Plant it in full sun in well composted soil.

Make a delicious citrus scented sauce - for ice-cream, stewed fruit or for pouring over a baked dessert. Combine 3/4 cup orange juice, 2 Tbsp. finely chopped citronella geranium leaves, 2 tsp. grated orange rind, 1 Tbsp. fresh lemon juice, 1 Tbsp. honey and 2 tsp. finely chopped Rosemary leaves. Combine all ingredients in a saucepan, bring to the boil and simmer for 5 to 10 minutes until thickened. Strain and serve.

NEW RELEASE

Cape Fuchsia 'Lemon Spritzer'™

A perennial plant with a twist – commonly known as the Cape Fuchsia – this indigenous, waterwise variety boasts beautiful and eye-catching, slender hot pink trumpet flowers which dangle from red flower spikes. Its lime green leaves are splashed with colours of darker green shades to make shady areas of your garden wonderfully vibrant and alive. Honeybees buzz straight to it!

'Lemon Spritzer'™ is long-flowering and makes for an ideal tall groundcover and is perfect for containers and hanging baskets.

GROWING HEALTH IN YOUR GARDEN

- by Jenny Slabber, Talborne Organics

All magnificent gardens start in a well nurtured soil. A healthy soil = healthy plants = healthy people, pets and a healthy living ecosystem which all adds to a wonderful garden environment.

Basics for Garden Health

A healthy soil: Needs lots of compost matter to feed the complex eco-system of beneficial soil life such as bacteria and fungi, which protect our plants' roots. Compost is a reservoir for water in the soil for plants' roots to drink from, and builds a soft friable and oxygenated soil for roots to penetrate. Make your own compost, or earthworm bin from kitchen scraps but if space is restricted buy Fertilise Earthworm Castings or a good quality compost. If already planted, apply a thin layer of compost or Fertilis to your plant beds or lawns every 3 to 5 months which will be taken up into soil.

Nutritious Plant Food: To prime a healthy soil, add a fully formulated organic fertiliser which contains all nutrients in correct proportions for plant uptake, use VITA Grow 2:3:2(16) at 100g per m². For conditioning existing beds planted with flowers and shrubs, fertilise with VITA Fruit & Flower 3:1:5(18) and lawns and leafy gardens apply VITA Green 5:1:5(16) at 100g per m² every 4 months. Water lightly after application and then continue your regular watering programme.

Water Strategically: Catch and store rainwater from the roof in tanks, reuse bath and shower water in the garden or for pot plants. Mulch to protect soils from water erosion and prevent evaporation by planting ground covers, or covering soil surfaces with chipped bark, gravel, wooden stepping stones or mixes of waterwise lawn for extensive areas.

IS YOUR GARDEN HYDROZONED?

Group plants with similar water needs together for a waterwise garden.

- High water use zone (3 drop)

This hydrozone should be kept as small as possible. These plants will need frequent watering throughout the year. Plant 3 drop plants, such as annuals and spring-flowering bulbs, in containers.
- Medium water use zone (2 drop)

Keep this hydrozone relatively small, as these plants will need more water than that is received as rainfall in your area. Many popular exotic garden plants are considered 2 drop.
- Low water use zone (1 drop)

This hydrozone can be as large as you like. 1 drop plants will thrive mainly on the rainfall received in summer, and may only need a little extra water in dry winter months. Plants suitable for this zone are often indigenous plants.
- No water use zone

You may make this hydrozone as large as possible. Plants that are categorized in this zone are often established local indigenous plants, shrubs, and succulents. A no water use area may also include permeable paving and hard landscaping.

For further information on Water Wise, please contact us on 0860 10 10 60 or visit www.randwater.co.za and click on the Water Wise logo.

GardenShop proudly stocks a wide range of waterwise plants for hydrozoning.

Win a trip with KLM to Keukenhof, Holland

Dear garden lovers

Have you dreamt of visiting the beautiful park of Keukenhof? To celebrate the arrival of spring in South Africa, KLM Royal Dutch Airlines is giving away a trip for two to Keukenhof, where you can enjoy spring in Amsterdam! The prize consists of 2 return Economy class flights from Johannesburg or Cape Town to Amsterdam, hotel accommodation for 3 nights for 2 people and tickets to enter the park. All you need to do to enter the competition is visit the KLM South Africa Facebook page, answer the daily question and you will be entered into the draw to win the main prize. We will also be giving away KLM hampers and a second prize GardenShop Hamper valued at R3000. The competition will run from the 4th of September until the 8th of September 2017 and winners will be announced on the 11th of September on the KLM South Africa and GardenShopSA Facebook pages.

About Keukenhof (Kitchen garden)

In 1949 a group of flower bulb exporters came up with a plan to use the Keukenhof estate for a permanent exhibition of spring-flowering bulbs, signaling the birth of Keukenhof as a spring park. Keukenhof is the international and independent showcase for the Dutch floricultural sector, with a special emphasis on flower bulbs. The park first opened its gates to the public in 1950 and was an instant success, with 236,000 visitors in the first year alone. In the space of eight weeks Keukenhof shows what the Dutch floricultural sector has to offer. The focus in the park is on the 7 million spring-flowering bulbs, in which the 100 participating companies show their living catalogue. In more than 20 flower shows, 500 flower growers present an enormous variety of cut flowers and pot plants.

About KLM

KLM Royal Dutch Airlines was founded on 7 October, 1919 to serve the Netherlands and its colonies. KLM is today the oldest airline still operating under its original name. KLM has been part of the AIR FRANCE KLM group since the merger in 2004. With Air France, KLM is at the forefront of the European airline industry. Offering reliability and a healthy dose of Dutch pragmatism, KLM strives to provide innovative products for their customers in a safe, efficient, and service-oriented way.

With a small homebase from which to work, KLM has maintained an international orientation from the beginning. KLM's strength lies in the tightly-knit, worldwide network it has built up with its partners. Passengers are able to transfer quickly and easily at Schiphol, KLM's homebase, and by connecting the networks of many different airlines throughout the world, they can take you from Schiphol to almost any spot on the globe.

KLM has daily flights from Johannesburg and Cape Town to Amsterdam, The Netherlands. Both routes are operated by Boeing 777-200 aircraft with Business and Economy class cabins.

Full terms and conditions will be available online on KLM's Facebook page <https://www.facebook.com/KLMSouthernAfrica> at the launch of the competition.
